All I need is roughly :
There were about xxx trucks south of Wellington;
30 moved to north of Wellington;
10 went somewhere else
Leaving approx XX south of Wellington.
Thank you!
Copy that

Respectfully asking if it's possible to get a quick and dirty sense before 10 am of tour organization's understanding of how many trucks that are part of the convoy are still South of Wellington, and how many were successfully moved out of residential zone yesterday.
I will try to get you that. Thanks

There are media reports that the city is either filing for or has obtained an injunction. None of us lawyers here have received any legal papers. Do you know if the media reports are true and whether an injunction has been obtained? Thanks has been obtained? Thanks

Yes it is factual. In a meeting now.
Just so you know, it is highly irregular for the city's lawyers to have done this without providing us lawyers here with notice. This could change everything discussed at our meeting at City Hall on Sunday. Eva was aware and there was a brief discussion about the injunction and she said they were appearing. Steve outlined that this would allow us to enforce our existing bylaws. It didn't seem to be an issue and we assumed that you would appear. Can you please touch base with Steve to confirm this exchange?

We have 9 semi's and lots of other vehicles ready to move but no police are responding to calls and the police said nothing is moving today.
It appears that there are issues happening at the command level

It appears that there are issues happening at the command level as our own command is undergoing a shift. Can you stand down as we try to clarify?
To the extent that we are able to communicate with the teams on the ground, yes, we are letting them know to be patient.
Thanks very much. My opinion is that if you get some to go to Embrun we

The truckers want to move 40 plus trucks tomorrow starting in the morning. They have the room on Wellington to fit.
That would just about clear out almost all of the residential areas.
Thanks very much for

Thanks very much for this. I have engaged with the City manager. A quick question? Did we end up moving a significant number before the Police ended the moving of trucks? Can you ask your ground team if I can get a ballpark estimate of how many more were moved?
We got shut down in the morning by the police because they thought it was only a 24 hour movement window and that

24 hour movement window and that window had closed. By the time we all worked to get that clarified and had trucks ready to move again, the new chief sent out the message to his troops that there would be no movements today. In short, we had 2 false starts. I am told by the truckers that if we can get the 40 trucks moved tomorrow it will only leave behind a few stragglers that will probably self remedy. I realize there's lots of

Thanks for this also. The departure of the Chief of Police made it very, very hard for us to engage in a supportive fashion, and I apologize for that. As the OPS irons out these details, I am just asking constructively if there is any thought to trying to get some of the 40 who are ready to go to consider

Our goal has always been de-escalation and I know you share this goal. But as time passes the window of opportunity narrows for people to leave safely with their property intact as the publicly announced measures increase the odds of vehicles being
